Good news for Minden Hospital mixed with lay-off notices

Emergency now open around the clock

by Andrew Milne

The Minden Hospital's emergency department has been reopened and is now providing 24 hour service, seven days a week.

However, 19 staff members have received lay-off notices. They are all members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) local 2787.

Hospital administrator Foster Loucks announced both moves in a press conference May 31.

Loucks explained that extension of the emergency service was the chief priority in providing service to the community. The staff reductions had to be made, he said, in order to find the money to keep the emergency ward open. In particular, the additional cost of providing 24 hour emergency coverage is eating into the hospital's already stretched budget. Furthermore, he said, with the in-patient ward closed, the hospital just doesn't need all of the staff it currently has.

Minden hospital's emergency ward has been on reduced hours — 16 hours a day during the week and 24 hours a day weekends — since February, a move the hospital administration (the board of St. Joseph's Hospital and Health Centre of Peterborough, which runs the Minden Hospital as a satellite) took in response to the shortage of doctors in the area. Later, in mid-April, St. Joseph's also closed the in-patient ward, after the abrupt departure of Dr. Holliday-Rhodes, leaving only one full-time doctor in the community with hospital privileges. Following up on a suggestion from a community committee, St. Joseph's hired at that time a staffing service called Med-Emerg to provide doctors to keep the emergency ward open.

Loucks said the emergency ward will remain open 24 hours

Warwick "Scotty" Calder got some TLC from Nurse Gladys Walker when he visited the Minden Hospital last week. The emergency department is now open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Minden hosts third annual Timbersport Championship

Watch out for flying axes and whirring chain saws this Saturday in downtown Minden.

The occasion is the annual Ontario Timbersport Championship. This is the third year the event has been held in Minden and organizers say the competition is the biggest in the province.

Participants are expected from throughout Ontario and northern United States. They will be competing in traditional lumberjack events such as log chopping, power and manual log sawing, axe throwing and pole climbing.

The event takes place on the community's Main Street where a number of events will be staged along with a Vendor's Alley. Other events will be held in the lot adjacent to the CIBC.

Activities begin at 9 Saturday morning and continue until 4:30 p.m.

Admission is free.

Into the home stretch

Progressive Conservative

Chris Hodgson

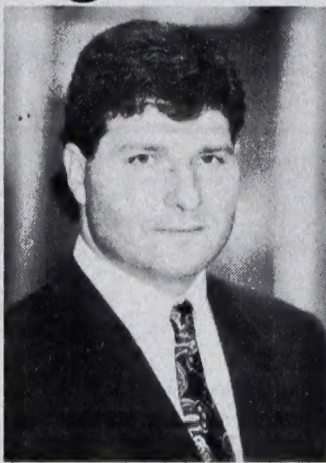

The provincial election is just a few days away and Progressive Conservative candidate Chris Hodgson is pleased that the polls are showing his party in the lead. He remains cautiously optimistic, saying: "We'll have to wait to see what happens on June 8th."

"I've had the job for 14 months and if the people think I've done a good job, I'd hope they would ask me to represent them for another term," Hodgson said.

"I've brought up issues that are important to the people in our riding," he added. "They may not be the centre of attention in Toronto, but they're certainly important to the people here. That's why you have ridings. I've tried to represent the people here. I've enjoyed working with the municipalities, the school boards, hunters' and anglers' groups and dealing with thousands of constituency problems."

"Sometimes we've had success in trying to make

Hodgson...pleased with the polls.

Liberal

Sharon McCrae

There may be concerns in the community about health care, education and other government services, but according to Liberal candidate Sharon McCrae, very little will improve without economic renewal. "Once people are working and can feel secure in their jobs and with their future incomes, you will see a stabilization in the health care system and in the operation of the municipal level services. Once we get economic stability back in place we'll be on the road to solving our other problems."

It's a theme that McCrae has repeated since even before the election was called, and now heading into the final few days of the campaign, she reiterates that theme.

A tireless campaigner, she has been on the trail for months, spreading the Liberal message and introducing herself to the electorate, particularly in the Haliburton

McCrae... a call for economic renewal.

New Democratic Party

Cathy Vainio

Three weeks into a campaign that has gone anything but smoothly, Cathy Vainio still wears her colours proudly.

She has to know what she's up against. Victoria-Haliburton just isn't a likely place to find support for a party whose roots are in social democracy. At a recent all-candidates meeting in Minden, she seemed thoroughly unprepared to answer voter concerns on local issues. And Bob Rae's surprised-by-power NDP government is trailing badly in the polls across most of the province right now.

Her acceptance speech, in taking the NDP candidacy scant weeks before the election, contained a sense of this. "We cannot let the left die," she said. "The stakes are just too high."

Now, with less than a week to go, Vainio is clearly still proud of the party for which she is running — willing to defend even its less popular policies, and glad to

Vainio...still proud of her party.

Don't be duped by 'guaranteed recipient' come-on, police warn

If it sounds too good to be true....then it likely is.

This old axiom is back on the lips of local police as they respond to a number of inquiries from individuals who have recently received a letter from Omega Premiums of Outremont, Quebec.

According to OPP Constable Rick Gooch residents in the area have been notified they have, "been selected as a guaranteed recipient of one of the five premiums listed on the page." The recipients are advised that they have been chosen as winners because of "...your recent mail order participation." And, just in case the individuals had any doubt of their eligibility, the letter informs them, "You have passed our internal requirements."

The prizes included in this great offer are: a $10,000.00 Savings Bond in Canadian Funds; a Sony Cam-Corder; a 33 inch R.C.A. Colour TV; 14 days and 13 nights plus airfare to Hawaii; or 4 days and 3 nights Caribbean Cruise.

Recipients are advised that they will only receive one notice of this special offer and they should act immediately.

The catch is, to receive the "premium" which has been selected for the recipient, they must..."return this notice with $32.49 (Canadian residents add 7% GST) processing fee payable to Omega Premiums"

The letter advises the recipients that after your cheque has been cashed, the valuable premium will be rushed to you. "This is 100% GUARANTEED by Internal Regulations!"

And, if the recipient has bought into the concept of sending money to receive a prize, the company offers what they describe as a special bonus offer. "For an additional $19.99, please send me a second premium from the list above..."

Constable Gooch said the only certainty in this scheme is that your cheque will be cashed by the recipients at the Montreal address. He suggests anyone responding to the plea should not expect to receive anything back, including any of the so-called valuable premiums.

Any sensible person should realize that if you have in fact won something, then they shouldn't have to pay any money to receive it. Secondly, the monetary value of the premiums would rapidly bankrupt any company willing to send such prizes to anyone who responds. Finally, as the police have pointed out numerous times in the past, if the deal appears to be too good to be true...it likely is.

According to Gooch, that applies to this case in particular. He advises anyone receiving such a letter to ignore it completely.

Woman assaulted near Kinmount

A 41 year-old Snowdon Township man faces several charges after a woman was taken to Minden Hospital suffering numerous cuts and bruises on May 28.

According to witnesses, a passing motorist picked a woman up on Highway 503 near Kinmount. She was taken to Dettman's Variety Store in Kinmount and an ambulance and police were called by store owner John Dettman.

"Her face was beaten up pretty badly," Dettman said.

Paul Sanche has been charged with assault causing bodily harm, breach of probation and possession of a narcotic.

The woman was treated at Minden hospital and released. The name of the victim is being withheld by police.

Cyclist fined $500, riding privileges suspended

Provincial judge Tim Whetung sent a strong message that unsafe conduct on bicycles will not be tolerated. Whetung found Kyle Mann of Minden guilty of assault in Provincial Court on May 31. Mann was fined $500, placed on probation for two years and prohibited from riding a bicycle until September 1, 1995.

Court heard that while Mann was riding his bicycle he struck another cyclist on the shoulder when he was passing the victim. The blow caused the other rider to fall off his bike.

Trent-Severn report

Water levels and river flow conditions are near normal for this time of the year in the Trent Canal System, according to the May 30 report from Parks Canada.

Reservoir water levels as of May 29 were at 98 percent of full capacity, slightly above the long-term average. Tributary flows have increased in the past week due to recent rain and as a result of releases from reservoir lakes which had surpassed their "full" level.

The Kawartha region remains above the summer navigation range and the Trent-Severn system has a small surplus. The Ontonabee River discharge is approximately 50 to 60 cubic meters per second while the Trent River flow is 75-90 cms.

According to the Trent-Severn Waterway authority, more timely rains will maintain the present conditions, however dry, summer-like weather will mean low flows and declining lake levels over the next few weeks.

Most of the lakes in the Haliburton Highlands feed into the Trent-Severn system.

Ian MacKenzie of Minden won four awards at the North Hastings Music Festival, including highest mark, highest piano mark, piano solo grade VII and up, and highest mark on a duet. MacKenzie's solo performance, Chopin's Raindrop Prelude, earned him a mark of 91, the highest the festival has seen in three years. The duet, Le Jardin Féérique, was performed with Teressa Scheffee.

No health care cuts says Hodgson

the government work for us or at least be aware of our concerns."

He cited the managed forest tax rebate, the trout fishing issue and the need for co-ordination between the Ministry of Natural Resources and the Ministry of Culture, Tourism and Recreation.

Hodgson has been busy since the election was called. His itinerary for last Friday was an example of a typical day on the campaign trail for the Haliburton native. He said he would be starting out at 6 a.m. at the factories, followed by a meeting at the Lindsay hospital at 9 a.m. and another meeting at 9:45. He planned to knock on doors and attend another meeting in the afternoon. In the evening he was scheduled to participate in an all-candidates meeting at Sir Sandford Fleming College in Lindsay. That meeting was to be telecast on the Lindsay Cable TV station. In between the meetings, he has been keeping up with his constituency work.

Hodgson said he has been stressing the positive.

"Everyone knows there needs to be a major change in the way government works," he said. "You just have to talk to any small business owner -- either a tourist operator or farmer or anyone trying to earn a living. They know that something's got to give -- that hard working people have to be rewarded and we have to get government spending under control to make sure that we get the budget balanced. People know that's the only way that we can preserve the services that government should provide -- by prioritizing what we spend our money on. We have a spending problem, not a revenue problem."

"We also have to have a growth plan," he said. "The only way you are going to create jobs, or allow the private sector to create jobs, is by rewarding working people -- giving them a tax break. They've hit the tax wall. You can tell by the size of the underground economy."

You can also tell every time you talk to people. They are telling us that after all the user fees, hydro increases and tax increases, they have no money to spend."

Hodgson said that no jobs will be created if there is no money in the communities for people to spend.

"Our plan is a growth plan and it calls for balancing the budget," Hodgson said.

Health care

"Our health care plan, which has been public information for more than a year, seals the envelope on funding -- no cuts to health care and no user fees," he stated. "We recognize that if there are savings to be derived by delivering services more effectively and efficiently, then they should be retained in the system as an incentive to find better ways to deliver health care services. The fear-mongering that's going on is simply not true."

"We've clearly stated that the government has to prioritize what it does, and then do it well. If we continue to let the interest on the debt spin out of control, then there will be no money to improve on our health care in this province."

"In particular, in the Haliburton County scene, I'd really like to see us get on with the enhanced facilities and better co-ordinated services for the county. It's disturbing to me that we've got to find a way to retain doctors. I'm looking forward to working with Foster Loucks (the newly appointed executive director of the Acting Health Services Board) and the committee to try to make things better."

Hodgson has supported Minden's request to the Ministry of Health for Underserved Area status. He would support requiring new doctors to do internship in rural Ontario and changing the method of payment for emergency services in rural Ontario, among other measures that have a goal of providing better health care services in the rural areas of the province.

McCrae sees a tight race heading into the final week

County area, where she was less well known.

Has all the work paid off? McCrae candidly admits that it is a tight race, with the PC candidate Chris Hodgson posing the most serious threat. But she suggests her opponent is "worried". Noting that his party leader was in the riding last weekend, she suggests that bringing in the leader may be a sign that the opponents are pulling out all the stops. "I think he (Hodgson) is worried," McCrae said and then admits, "but so am I."

The most often repeated issue she has run into in her door to door effort is concern over health care. "In this part of the riding, the people are asking about the shortage of doctors and the status of the hospitals. Elsewhere (as well as in Haliburton County) people are also concerned about changes to the delivery of long-term care services." She notes that there are concerns that changes in the way services are delivered, including the introduction of Multi Service Agencies, will result in more bureaucracy and fewer services.

Education is another area where people are expressing concerns, McCrae said. According to the candidate, there is no saving to be realized through the amalgamation of area school boards such as the Victoria and Haliburton boards. She points out that studies have indicated that it will cost $1.5 million to amalgamate the two because of the differential in pay scales between the two areas. "If the two boards are brought together, the teachers in Victoria, who earn less than their counterparts in Haliburton, would want parity."

One of the planks in the PC platform that is getting a lot of attention recently is the work for welfare suggestion. She pointed out that the Liberals would encourage people who are receiving public assistance to enrol in a training program or remain active in the community. "There is value in volunteer service. The community benefits and the individual remains active, more ready to re-enter the work force." Describing the Liberal plan as a "carrot" she said the Liberal plan calls for a 20% reduction in benefits for welfare recipients who, though able, refuse to enrol in upgrading courses or remain active in the community. She cautioned that the Harris approach is too harsh. "You can't create jobs where there aren't any," she said. "We want to help people be 'job-ready' and train them for the new job market."

McCrae said tourism is one area where job growth can take place. Noting that this area has a lot to offer visitors, with year-round attractions, "Let's market it," she said.

The candidate said she has been finding a general malaise in the community concerning politicians. "Politicians have lost their credibility with the public." Rising to the defense of her own integrity, she said, "I have worked for the people, and always will. I am honest and there only for the best interest of the voters."

The Liberal candidate will be making only one more formal appearance in this end of the riding before voting day. She is scheduled to take part in a candidates' debate Tuesday evening in Kinmount starting at 7:30 p.m. at the Kinmount Community Centre.

a day until at least the end of September, when the administration hopes to be able to make more long range plans. He also said that the hospital would be providing medical service "for persons without a family doctor and in need of immediate medical attention."

Loucks said he doesn't know at this point whether all of those who received notices will lose their jobs at the end of the six months, "And maybe it's just my perception as management," he said, "but I think people are as positive about this right now as can be expected." Under the CUPE contract, at least six months notice must be given before a position can be terminated. As well, the contract provides for assistance to the members who may wish to seek retraining or relocation.

There are redeployment programs — the CUPE staff — 10 full time and 9 part-time positions, including all of the hospital's Registered Professional Nurses or RPNs (the RNs are members of another union) can now take advantage of a number of programs designed to assist them in locating a new job work should they need it.

There is, quite obviously, a lot of uncertainty in this however. Now is not an easy time to find work in the health care field. Says CUPE local president Gwen Hewitt, "It's not easy to find an institution that isn't in the process of restructuring, and usually restructuring means down-sizing."

Loucks could not say however what is likely to happen after September, or if the hospital's remaining staff can expect to receive notice sometime soon as well. The hospital's Registered Nurses are members of the Ontario Nursing Association, and would require three months notice according to their collective agreement. "The continuation of the service after September will depend on how much it is used in the summer, and a further financial assessment of the hospital's operating position later this summer."

The emergency department's operation will include a few 'observation beds'. These beds will be available to hold a patient for short period of time to give the doctors time to assess the condition and either discharge or transfer the patient. "We'll likely be using one of the rooms if there is one person in need of that observation. But we could open a second room in theory if needed... We will be monitoring the use of the observation beds very carefully because we're not really able, with this staffing pattern, to operate the full service."

The additional doctors needed to staff the hospital will come from Lindsay and Barrie. A rotation has been worked out in which six doctors will each be in the area two or three days a month during the summer to take up the slack. Local doctors will also share in the emergency department services provided at the hospital.

One of the benefits of hiring the doctors from the surrounding region is, since they are familiar with the admission patterns at facilities in their home communities, it may be easier to transfer patients to those hospitals if they need the services offered there. Also, by exposing these doctors to the Minden community, there is a possibility that one of them may wish to relocate here.

For the moment at least, Loucks reassured area residents that emergency services are now available at the Minden Hospital on an around the clock basis.

Volunteer organizations must plan for change

by Jerry Grozelle

Deb Hart-McKittrick, guest speaker at the annual general meeting of Haliburton County Home Support Services, told the people at the meeting that the past decade has been one of never-ending changes. Hart-McKittrick is the program supervisor of the long term care division of the Ministry of Health's area office in Peterborough.

"Who would have thought that the Berlin Wall would come down or that there would be such a radical change in the political climate of Russia," she said.

Hart-McKittrick said that Haliburton County has undergone changes over the past decade as well, including population changes.

"The population of the county is aging," she said. "If there is one thing we can count on, it will be continued changes in all aspects of our lives."

"We're going to have to learn from businesses to ride the wave of change successfully," she continued. "Organizations and individuals have to change with the times."

She added that people have to overcome their natural tendency to resist change.

"The only thing we can be sure of is that change will be followed by change," she predicted.

Rae did the right thing: Vainio

talk about its record.

The social contract? "It was like an NDP government has a sacred trust with its workers, says Vainio. "And yes, it's going to hurt their feelings. But when you look at what could have happened, they would have lost 40,000 jobs just to bring the deficit down two billion. Would they have preferred that? Look, I'm a part time teacher. And I figure hey, we've got to share the pain here... They've got to vote, and if they're still feeling upset, what can I say? I still stand behind Bob Rae because I feel that everything else being equal, he did the right thing."

Employment equity? Yes, says Vainio, she supports the government's stand. "Definitely," she says. "And this cry about the quota system — that is totally erroneous. There's no quota system... Remember the old days, when you went to the bank, and all the women were clerks, and the manager in the loans office was male, and it never seemed to change? It's the same in medicine, it's the same in the school boards, it's the same on Hydro commissions. It just stands to reason that this is a reality of life."

She apparently has no problem saying what she knows some voters do not want to hear. She says, in response to concerns about the Managed Forest Tax Rebate, that the NDP simply would not bring back the MFTR. Instead, she says, tax reform will be one of the first priorities — eliminating the inequities that lead to the need for the rebate in the first place.

She was poorly prepared to discuss the closure of the Ministry of Culture, Tourism and Recreation's (MCTR) Bark Lake Leadership Camp during the Minden all-candidates' meeting. Now, she says, she's been brought up to speed. But Bark Lake's employees are unlikely to be happy with what she has to say.

Vainio says she was told by the MCTR that Bark Lake had been instructed to look for public and private sector partners to respectively reduce costs and to take non-essential services out of the government purview. Says Vainio, "When we were asked to look into our costs as a government, and people are screaming at us, lower the taxes, reduce the deficit, pay down the debt, and we're looking through the books in the programs, we find Bark Lake, much of which is just not an essential service... So we approached these people, and we said look around for a private buyer. Well we stepped on a mine field. They said oh, look at this government, from on high, cutting our programs. Imposition from above. That wasn't the way it was. They were given long enough to seek that buyer... If there was an essential service component of the program, they could work with another educational institution that was funded by government — get the educational component linked with the other, public, program. Then they look for buyers for the other parts of the program. And this government has put in a lot of infrastructure in there, so that there wouldn't be a problem finding a buyer."

Her keystone issue, she says, is still the health care system. She defends current health minister Ruth Grier's record in reducing costs, and insists that come what may, an NDP government will not leave Ontario with a "two-tier" health care system, in which those who can afford it buy the best of care and the rest get by on deteriorating public systems. "And no health levy either," says Vainio. "I remember the old health levy where we were paying $500 a year as a family — in those dollars — 1975. You can imagine what those would be now. So there's no way. And that hundred dollars very soon becomes two hundred, four hundred, five hundred... They just get a leg in the door and soon you're paying through the nose."

Three fringe candidates

There are three other candidates in the provincial election race in Victoria-Haliburton.

Brad Bradmore of Kinmount has registered as an independent candidate.

Brad Medd is representing the Family Coalition Party.

Charles Olito is the candidate for the Confederation of Regions Party.

Good news... bad news

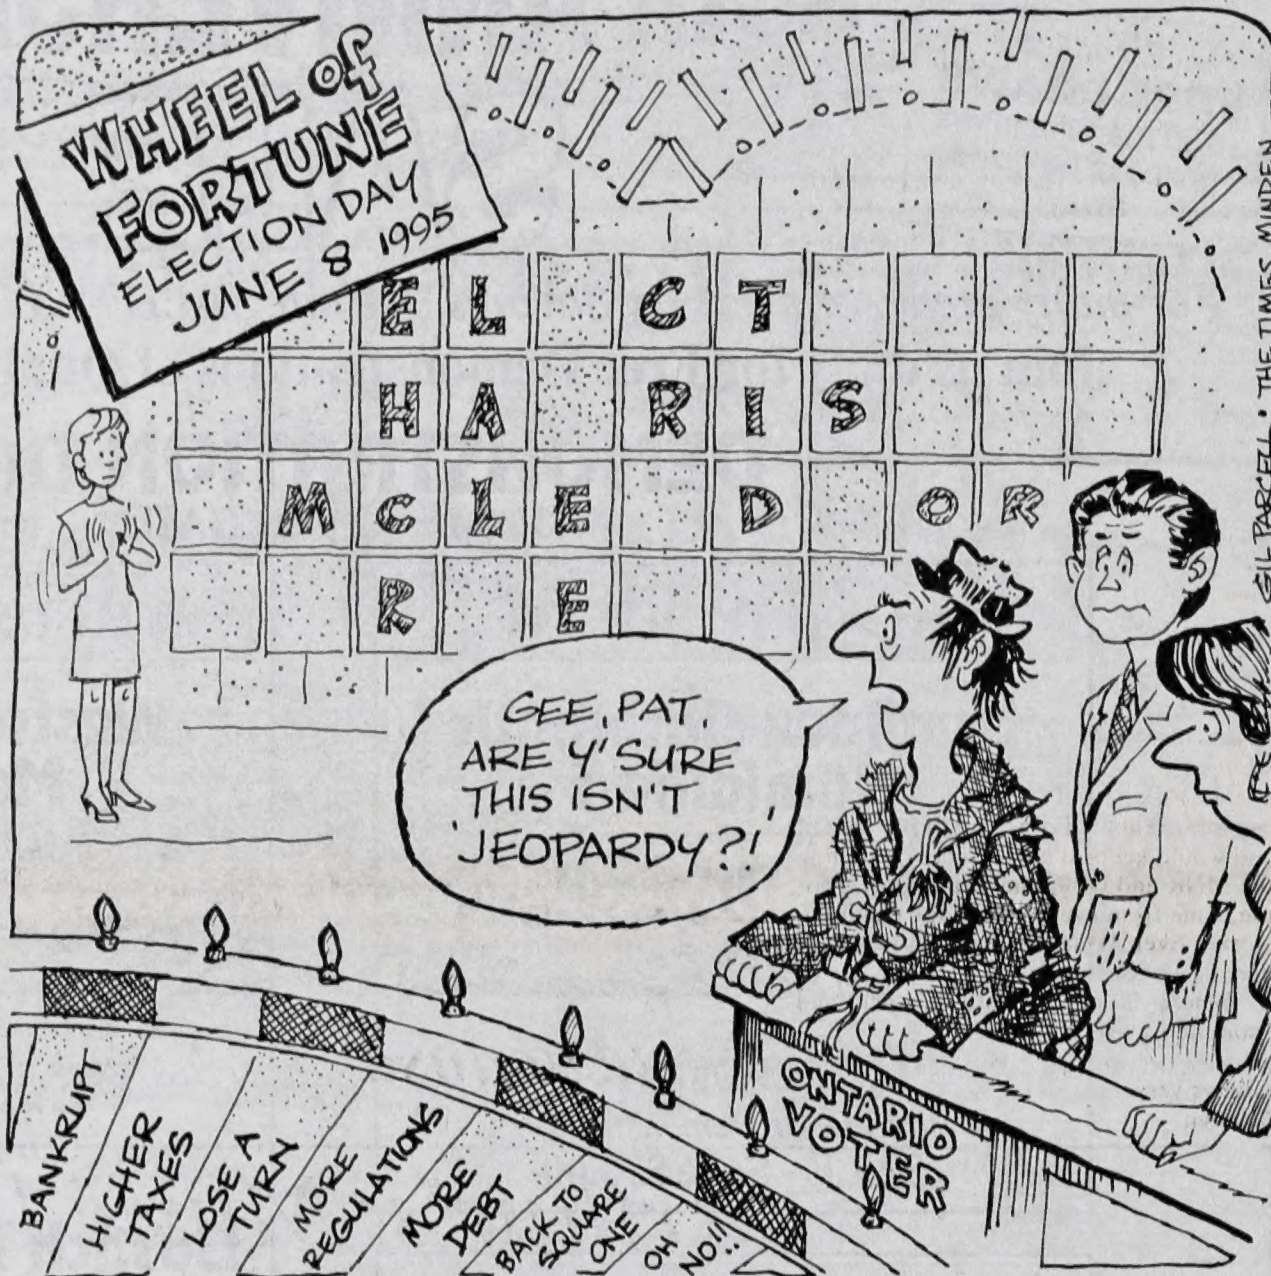

The community was relieved to learn officially last week that the emergency department at the Minden Hospital was back in operation on a 24 hour/seven days a week basis. Permanent and seasonal residents alike have come to rely on the services of the emergency department as the first line of defence when a medical emergency, traumatic or minor, arises. The community understands that the hospital, the smallest in the province, does not have all the latest gadgetry and specialists found in big city facilities. But, they also know that the hospital was a place where caring and competent doctors and staff are available to quickly assess and respond to an emergency situation. Knowing that treatment, stabilization and, if necessary, transfer to a more sophisticated facility was available at the Minden Hospital, provides a level of reassurance and comfort for those in this area.

While the news was reassuring, we should not lose sight of the fact that the new hours are only in place for the next four months, covering the busiest time of the year in the Highlands.

As well, the closure of the in-patient beds continues. The reasoning given for reduced in-patient services is to help finance the additional costs associated with the hiring of doctors to manage the emergency department. The closure has also resulted in the possible reduction in staff at the hospital. (To comply with the terms of their collective agreement, some members of the hospital staff were given notice that six months from now their jobs could disappear.)

The reinstatement of 24 hour emergency service will be welcomed by all. The continuing uncertain status of the in-patient beds and the services they provide should be a concern to everyone in the area served by the hospital. Even though some of those individuals who used the in-patient beds might be able to be accommodated at home, many others will be relocated to other hospitals, creating an equal, if not greater, financial burden on the health system. The closure of the in-patient beds does not solve the problems of those who might have occupied them. It simply moves it to another location.

More on this subject next week.

...the government you deserve

Editor:

Re: Excerpts from article in the Canadian Forum.

Canadians seem to have an infinite capacity for being surprised and shocked. Surprised, when the latest "recovery" left two million people unemployed and shocked when inflation came down but interest rates stayed up and half a million more of us slipped into poverty.

Take Free Trade as an example. Its effects were entirely predictable; the mass exodus of manufacturing plants and jobs, the erosion of our culture and sovereignty and our slide into the inferiority of the U.S. social system.

The big corporations promised, in full page ads, that prosperity would follow, more jobs would be created and the losers would all be retrained. And hey, when have they lied to us before? Didn't their downsizing and paper shuffling lead to a 4.5% increase in G.N.P.? As soon as they have finished firing their staff, disposed of our social network and kept our interest and unemployment rates high, we'll all be in paradise.

These assurances are so patently absurd that only a moron would take them seriously. When we do, we blame politicians, immigrants, the unemployed, welfare bums, everyone except the real villains.

Two researchers at Statistics Canada, Messrs. Wolfson and Murphy, predicted that the 5 million now living in poverty would increase, even without further cuts to social benefits, to 10 million by the year 2000, a number which has now been up-dated to 40% with the present Liberal agenda. At that level, we would become a Third World country which is just fine as far as the C.E.O.s are concerned.

Their objective, after all, is to make us so insecure, so fearful and so desperate that we will take any job at any wage and on any terms.

Considering the unplumbed depth of our gullibility, we are living proof of Joseph De Maistre's acid observation that, "Every nation has the government it deserves."

Note: The author of the article to which these comments pertain, Mr. E. Finn, is a researcher with the Canadian Centre For Policy Alternatives.

H. Michael Collins,
Gooderham.

Common sense?

Editor:

When one turns on the TV, one hears over and over "Vote for common sense," and it makes one wonder where that sense is in our county.

If one has been reading our newspapers, one realizes just how many scandals there are to be acknowledged. First of all there is the issue of Hyland Crest paying large amounts of money in lawyers fees and then firing a nurse for which no explanation was ever provided in print.

Now we are going to lose our libraries. Other counties which aren't as highly taxed as we are have got libraries so why don't we? Our teachers have enough to do.

Many people in Haliburton don't want Victoria Street School taken down. Why? They say it is not worth fixing, but why is the County Council building, which is almost as old, worth the $700,000 being spent on it. There is no room for parking or construction. That money could be used to build a County building on the bypass which could house all the services which are presently scattered over Haliburton Village and for which we are paying rent. This building would be a credit and would keep all our services, including the MNR and OPP, under one roof. People come from every part of the county to work. Even Dysart has many who drive here to work every day.

Where is our County Warden and "common sense"?

Arthur's: Music 101

When you're 35, something always happens to the music.

A Canadian musician, lyricist and composer by the name of Gene Lees wrote those words -- and if, like this scribbler, you are over the age of 35 then you know only too well whereof Mister Lees speaks.

When my father was 35, a hill-billy truck driver from Tennessee was zooming up the music charts. I loved Elvis. My father feared I'd lost my mind.

But then when his dad was middle-aged, weird aberrations with names like Rudy Vallee and Ethel Merman were turning teenage heads with their songs.

T'was ever thus. No doubt when Romeo was serenading Juliet, some Venetian on a nearby balcony was yelling "WILL YA CUT OUT THE #@*& RACKET!"

Plus ca change. Take my son. Please. He is twenty and he listens to...I don't know what he listens to. The sounds that rattle our fine china and shiver the timbers of our house are like nothing I have heard on this earth.

And I've attended a bagpipe recital.

If I had to categorize his music, I'd call it two-fifths heavy machinery, one-fifth fingernails on a blackboard and two-fifths tomcat in heat.

I know, I know... I sound just like my father, my grandfather and Juliet's next door neighbour.

How about you? Are you bewildered by the musical sounds you hear these days? Panic not. I've been doing some research into the whole subject of modern pop music. Just let me slip out of these industrial strength earmuffs and I'll tell you all about it.

First off, I'll assume that, like me, you have no trouble differentiating among Country and Western, Rock and Roll and Easy Listening music. Chances are you could even tell a polka from a ragtime from a bluegrass tune.

Such rudimentary knowledge was good enough to carry you through the 50's, 60's, 70's and 80's, but it won't help you nowadays. Nope, to navigate the Pop World of the 90's you need the Basic Black Musical Identikit.

Does the noise you hear seem to involve a lot of accordions plus a wash-board or two? Then chances are you're hearing Zydeco -- a form of music spawned in Cajun country.

Or perhaps you're listening to what seems to be a Polka with rabies? That's what they call Banda -- kind of sounds like Canadian Brass meets Lawrence Welk and everybody gets drunk on cheap red wine.

A slightly more sophisticated new music genre features both accordions and a polka beat but modernized with synthesizers and the like. This is called in certain rural areas of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Tejano. Very popular on the West Coast, and

Then of course there's Bhangra. This is a hybrid musical form that marries contemporary Western rhythmic with Asiatic instruments and vocalization. You may have heard of Punjabi By Nature? That's a group that's doing a lot to make Bhangra as familiar as Bossa Nova.

So what is that earsplitting jabberwacky oozing out from under my son's bedroom door? None of the above. As near as I decipher, the stuff he listens to is called Club Music. That's the umbrella name. Club subdivides into various schools known as Techno, Jungle, Rave, Dub, Tribal and Ambient.

How do you tell if what you hear is Club Music? Well, it's easy if you happen to have access to a pass-key to the National Research Council Instrumentation Laboratory. Club Music is identifiable by the hundreds of beats per minute it fills.

That's how you can tell Club Music if you can lay your hands on an oscilloscope, but I have a simpler rule of thumb for the Instrumentally Challenged.

If the music sounds like a migraine feels, it's Club.

You have any thoughts on modern music? I'd love to hear them. Why don't you get in touch?

But drop me a line. Please don't try to call. I can't hear the telephone.

Not with these heavy duty earmuffs on.

Home Support Services elects new executive

She cautioned not to take past successes for granted, saying: "The old adage 'if it ain't broke, don't fix it' doesn't apply any more."

Relating the changes to non-profit organizations such as HCHSS, she said that there is more consciousness of money in these days of government funding cut-backs.

She pointed out that volunteers remain strongly committed to their organizations.

"Goals are very important," Hart-McKittrick said. "They need to be something that inspires us. Mission, passion and commitment are the key elements in non-profit organizations."

Hart-McKittrick said that risks will have to be taken and that mistakes are inevitable. Learning from those mistakes and forging ahead are the keys to success.

"You'll create your future by your actions, or inactions, now," she said.

Strategic plan

Donna Pacey, executive director of Haliburton County Home Support Services outlined the updated strategic plan for the organization.

Pacey pointed out that HCHSS is one of the few such organizations to have a strategic plan.

The purpose of the plan is "to enable seniors (55 years of age and older) and/or physically challenged persons 18 years old or older to remain independent in their own homes for a longer period and to continue to co-operate with others in the county to create an awareness of the client needs and enhance the quality of their lives."

The objectives, besides those listed in the mandate, include: developing and enhancing the skills and knowledge of registered volunteers and staff; improving support and services to seniors and physically challenged people throughout Haliburton County (and including Dorset and Kinmount); promoting the availability of programs and services by registered volunteers; and providing opportunities for social interaction and introducing new recreational activities to seniors and/or the physically challenged.

Services provided through HCHSS include Meals on Wheels, Friendly Visiting, Fone-A-Friend, Home Help, Transportation, Alzheimers Support, Emergency Response System and Social Recreational Services.

Short-term and long-term goals have been set in preparation for anticipated future changes, especially those changes precipitated by Bill 173.

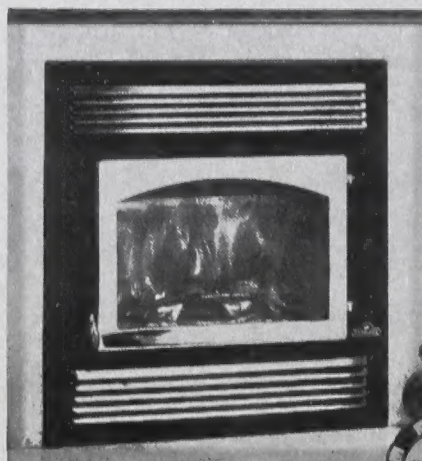

Executive elected

Executive officers and directors for the 1995-96 fiscal year were elected at the HCHSS annual general meeting.

Adele Barnes was selected as president; Wendy Gunning is the first vice-president, Jerry Rome is second vice-president and treasurer and Jan McMaster is executive secretary. Helen Henderson is past president.

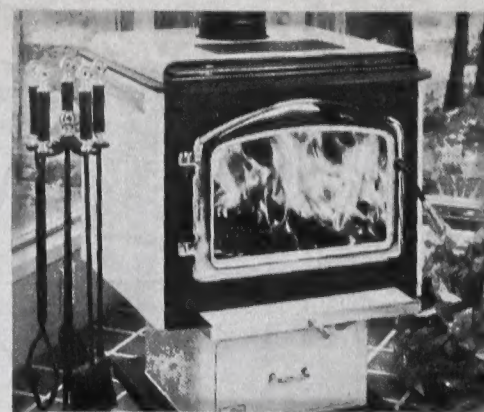

The directors are: Morris Hansen, Gary Holland, Bob Mitchell, Lourene Scott, Ruth Still and Jean Whittman.

Midget Royals at .500 after first three games

The Minden midget Royals baseball team is at .500 after three games. The local boys had a loss, a tie and a win.

The opener, on May 21, was at home against Coboconk. The Coby team arrived with one player short so rather than force the visitors to forfeit the game, Jonathan Swinson was recruited to give Coby a playable roster.

The 14 year-old Minden bantam player proved to be a valuable asset to the Coboconk team. He hit a home run to give the visitors a 4-3 win.

Sheamus Donnery hit a home run for the Royals.

Game two of the season started at noon on May 28 in Minden. The Royals and the visiting Bobcaygeon team only got three innings played before the clouds opened up and put an end to the game. The score was tied at 4-4.

Tommy Bagshaw was having a good game on the mound for the Royals when the rain cut the game short.

The Royals went to Ops for a game on May 30, coming home with an 8-0 victory.

Justin Rowden pitched the first four innings to earn the win for Minden.

Jeff Wray hit a solo home run in the second inning for the Royals and Bagshaw, who was playing left field, made three exceptional catches. One of those catches, with his arm over the left-field fence, prevented a potential home run.

A game slated for Friday night in Cambray was rained out. The Royals were scheduled to play the Cambray #1 team yesterday. They will take on Oakwood tomorrow in Oakwood and the next home game will be on Sunday, June 11 against Woodville.

Bantams split against two Lindsay teams

The Minden Royals bantam A baseball team split its first two games of the season. In the opener, on May 21 at home, the Minden boys trampled the Lindsay Number 2 team 22-1.

Ryan Anderson hit a grand slam home run and Matt Cheeseman hit a homer in the winning cause.

The second game was in Minden on May 28 against the Lindsay Number 1 team.

Coach Tom Ecclestone admits his team made some errors early in the contest that cost them the game. The Royals fell behind and were unable to catch up as Lindsay held on for a 9-5 win.

Cheeseman hit his second home run in as many games for the Royals.

The Minden bantam team's home games are played at 10 a.m. Sundays.

Hole-in-one

The first hole-in-one was recorded at the Blairhampton Golf Club on May 20.

Paul Sward aced the par-three, 173-yard eighth hole, using a six iron.

Irondale resident organizing local people to attend Hamilton gun rally

Firearms owners from across Ontario are being encouraged to attend a Pro-Gun/Anti-Crime Rally on Saturday, June 17 in Hamilton.

The event has been organized by the Hamilton-Wentworth Concerned Gun Owners. It will take place at the Copps Coliseum, which seats 16,000.

Dennis Simmons of Irondale is hoping to get as many local people as possible to make the trip to Hamilton for the rally. He will be arranging to meet with a group from Orono and taking buses from there to Copps Coliseum. He says the cost of the bus and admission to the coliseum for the event is $20. Anyone who wishes to drive to the event can get tickets from Simmons at $6 per person or some tickets may be available at the door.

"It is important to show our support (for those who oppose the proposed gun control legislation),"

Simmons said. "It might be our last major opportunity to get media recognition prior to the third and final reading (of Bill C-68)."

Several guest speakers are booked and the event is expected to attract extensive media coverage. Organizers have invited Progressive Conservative leader Mike Harris and Victoria-Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson but neither has been willing to make that commitment until after the June 8 provincial election.

Senator Gerry St. Germaine of British Columbia, Alberta Reform MP Jack Ramsay and Reform revenue critic Jim Abbott (BC) are among the politicians expected to speak. Bill Rantz of the National Firearms Association, Larry Cowlshaw of the Ontario Handgun Association, Ernie Sopsitch of the Shooting Sports Alliance, John Perocchio of the Shooting Federation of Canada and Dr. Judith Ross, a competitive shooter are also slated to speak at the rally.

The doors to the coliseum will open at 11 a.m. and the meeting will take place from 1 to 3 p.m.

Anyone interested in attending the meeting, or for more information, contact Dennis Simmons at 447-2394 by Wednesday, June 7. He has to arrange for seating on the buses by that date.

"We have to be united to fight this government," said Dennis Wright of the Hamilton-Wentworth Concerned Gun Owners. "When they start telling their people how to vote it's no longer a democracy."

Roller hockey action starts in Minden

Enough players turned out for two roller blade hockey teams Thursday evening at the Minden Arena. Jeff Howe, one of the organizers of roller hockey in Minden, said he was happy with the turnout. He added that almost everybody who showed up for opening night said he knew somebody who was interested in playing. Goaltender Chris Todd makes a save (above) during the first recreational roller hockey game of the season. Howe says anyone interested in playing in this men's league (16 and over) is welcome to come out on Thursday night. The action starts at 8 p.m.

Coach optimistic bantam B Royals will be competitive

In spite of two losses in their first two games coach of the Minden bantam B Royals baseball team, Andy Mackenzie is optimistic. He says that once the team has a few more practices it will be ready to take on all the competition.

Neither of the first two losses was a blowout. The opener, against Cambray #1 in Minden on May 30, saw the visitors escape with a 12-9 win.

Last Wednesday, the Minden bantams went to Cannington, where they were edged 11-7 by the host team.

Coach Mackenzie said that Andrew Graham paced the Minden attack in both games with a triple and a couple of doubles. He added that most of the Minden runs against Cannington were scored after the batters had walked.

The bantam Royals play their home games on Sundays at the Community Centre ball park starting at 10 a.m. The Minden boys are off to Cambray to take on the #2 team tomorrow (Tuesday) and on Friday they will be in Cobocok for a game. The next home game is June 11 at 10 a.m.

THE BETTER BUILT HOME

Members of the Haliburton Messiah Choir, under the direction of Melissa Stephens, right, delighted audiences May 27 and 28 with their performance of Gospel music. Of special note in this program was the appearance of the members of the Highlands Brass in three instrumental selections and one accompanying the choir. The audience also enjoyed an appearance by five area ministers. During the finale, the choir members encircled the audience as they sang River to Judea. Wayne Cooper served as piano accompanist for the performances.

Kinmount Canoe Festival soggy, but successful

Even with the inclement weather, the Canoe Festival in Kinmount on May 28 was deemed a success.

"In spite of the pouring rain, 29 canoes turned up to race," said festival organizer Ray Kettlewell. "It was no wetter below the canoes than above, but no one's enthusiasm was dampened in the slightest."

Winners of the races were as follows:

Youth challenge -- First, Christina and Phillip Butts; second, Anthony and Jason Weerdenburg; and David Williams and Joshua Crego.

Women's challenge -- First, Cheryl Pearson and Nancy Crowe; second, Julie and Sarah Austin.

Mixed challenge -- First, Greg and Bonnie Roe; second, Kevin and Alana Callan; third, Heather Crowe and Jack Vanatter.

Men's challenge -- First, Blake Paton and Rod MacDonald; second, John Price and David Hubers; third, Ben King and Jondon Wilson.

Service club challenge -- First, Dave Loughed and Tommy Day of the Kinmount Legion; second, Ron Barr and Arnold Graham of the Haliburton Lions Club; third, Doug Pearce and Fred Brecht of the Township of Bexley.

The fun paddle was won by the father and son team of Hugh and James Morshead. Kettlewell reports that the Morsheads were still laughing days after the event. Hugh Morshead is quoted as saying "the rain gave the day character."

The slalom single paddler winner was Jack Vanatter. "The decorated canoe parade and contest was the hit of the day," Kettlewell said. "Everyone showed great imagination. We would never have dreamed so many people could stand in the rain, sopping wet, laughing themselves silly."

First place was won by the Polynesian Princess, a combination of two canoes with a platform between, decorated with tropical flowers, pineapple, a life-sized palm tree and five people, suitably attired in grass skirts and playing ukuleles. The people responsible for this work of art were Barb Lown, T.J. Lown, Marie Sturman, Chris Pyatt and Heather Butts (reputed to be the youngest hula dancer in Kinmount).

Second place went to the Pearson Pirates, a canoe converted to a pirate ship, complete with a sail, cannon, treasure chest and two little pirates in full costume. Doug Pearson and his sons Tim and Mike were the captain and crew of the second-place vessel.

Third place went to Julie Austin and Andrew Clark, who turned themselves into Vikings for the day.

"The Canoe Festival organizers wish everyone who participated could have won," Kettlewell said. "We'd especially like to thank all those who patiently got soaked to help with registration, traffic direction and general encouragement. Special thanks, also, to the Minden Lions Club for their generous, and completely unexpected, donation to the park fund."

"Will we do this again next year?" Kettlewell said. "You bet."

A WINNER IN THE MAKING: Chris Pyatt attaches flowers to the "Polynesian Princess" in preparation for the decorated canoe parade at the Kinmount Canoe Festival on May 28. The festival was a fund-raiser for the Kinmount Heritage Park project.

Group reaches out to those with emotional and psychiatric disorders

by Andrew Milne

Dayle MacCharles was a depressed, alcoholic victim of childhood incest.

And she wants to tell you about it.

MacCharles, who says she has been in and out of the mental health care system, is now running a self-help group, for people with emotional and psychiatric disorders, called the Survivors Psychiatric Advocacy Network (SPAN). The organization, which has run groups in Lindsay and Haliburton, is now renting a house for use as a drop-in centre in Minden. Located on the Northeast corner of Highway 35 and South Lake Road, the centre is open to, as MacCharles puts it, "anyone who feels they need it."

"This is a place where anyone can go," she says. "It's a home. We've rented a house. The coffee is always on, and there's someone there to talk to."

The rationale behind SPAN, says MacCharles, is that the people who've been there often have a lot to offer others who may still be dealing with the shame, the stigma of mental illness. Just talking about it, she says, often helps.

MacCharles says the group used to be open only to users or former users of the mental health care system. It's more open now, she says, because the waiting list is so long for mental health care services. People sometimes sometimes have to wait months for an appointment after being referred to a professional for help.

"The people who work there," she says, "have no credentials — their credentials are that they've been ill, and they've been in hospital, and they've been in depression. When they say 'I know how you feel,' it's not in the patronizing way. I almost hit a psychiatrist once for saying that. I asked him if he'd doing so because of it, she says. People who have support from their family and friends don't feel so isolated.

She recalls an anecdote of her own — she remembers that when she was recovering from a physical ailment, her neighbours came around to check on her, cooked food for her, made sure she was okay. In contrast, people coming out of the hospital after being treated for mental illness are often shunned — something, again, she has experienced.

"You feel isolated," she says. "You hide in your house with the curtains drawn, all by yourself, and a little while later, you're back in the hospital."

SPAN's Minden centre is open from 12:00 noon to 4:00 pm weekdays. The centre can be reached at 286-3476. Off-hours the answering machine is checked regularly.

ever been a four year old little girl who'd been raped. He didn't know how I felt."

MacCharles has been in and out of mental health care institutions — she'd been severely depressed, and was sometimes medicated. She says she genuinely feels much of the real secret to recovery for her has been to talk about it, to get it out in the open.

"I don't feel ashamed of my mental illness," she says, "Any more than I'd feel ashamed if I were diabetic. I kept it a secret for so long — I started keeping secrets when I was three or four years old... And every time I talk about it now I'm better — I'm lighter. The shame that had me thinking I had to keep it a secret is gone. I can talk about it openly."

MacCharles also firmly believes that the social stigma associated with mental illnesses is hurting people — very directly. People who should get help avoid

Remember 286-1995

Residents mark Queen Victoria's birthday on May 24

Hope everyone had a great Victoria Day weekend. The folks at Hyland Crest chose to celebrate on the actual day, Wednesday, May 24, 1995.

Monday afternoon Nancy Greyton entertained in the main lounge.

Tuesday morning chapel service was delivered by Rev. Fred Elson from Gelert.

We had crafts in the afternoon and were making flags for July 1st. Some of the residents were painting, others were braiding decorative paper into lovely decorations. Doris, Linda, Janice, Phyllis, Dottie and I were in attendance to assist the folks. In the evening Pearl held cards for the faithful group of euchre players she has.

Wednesday was Victoria Day celebrations. The folks had an English dinner of bangers and mash, namely sausages and mashed potatoes. In the evening they were entertained on the piano by Gordon Kennedy from Haliburton. Earl Cooper did the piping and Janice had a Victorian quiz. As darkness fell the musicians retreated outside onto the lawn. Dottie, Doris, Linda, Dore and I got the folks outside so they had a good view of the festivities. Earl Cooper played the pipes and Gordon Kennedy accompanied on the drums.

The residents who couldn't get out were taken to the windows so they could watch. The pyrotechnician for the evening was Don Booth with Don Alton, Bob Muirhead, Tom McAllister assisting. The fireworks were very beautiful and some were very noisy.

This was a wonderful memorable celebration and by the time ten o'clock rolled around our dear folks were ready for bed. The air was quite fresh out there. Thanks to all the entertainment and volunteers. The Lions and Kinsmen clubs, Dottie Muirhead and the resident's council provided the funding. Without them these functions would not become reality or be such a success.

After the finale, Earl played O Canada, several folks were twirling sparklers and it was a great ending for Victoria Day.

Thursday morning Doris and Janice held an exercise session and in the afternoon the ladies from Minden Horticultural Society provided lovely food for the tea party. They served birthday cake in honour of ten residents who had birthdays in May. Thank you ladies. Also thank you Rev. Burgess and Pat Scott for helping at the tea party.

Our sincere sympathy to the family of Vera Archer. Vera passed away peacefully on May 25th.

The Grandfathers Four were all together again. George Smith has been away for several months. He resides in Oshawa during the winter months. Good to have you back George, and thanks fellows for your great music. We are getting more people up dancing these days, even some residents with walkers get their feet shuffling. It is so heart warming to see a normally quiet little lady up there enjoying herself. Dottie, Pearl and I ran the refreshment booth.

Saturday afternoon as I walked through the main hall I heard beautiful old hymn music coming from the lounge. It was Louise Leonard on the piano. Thanks once again Louise.

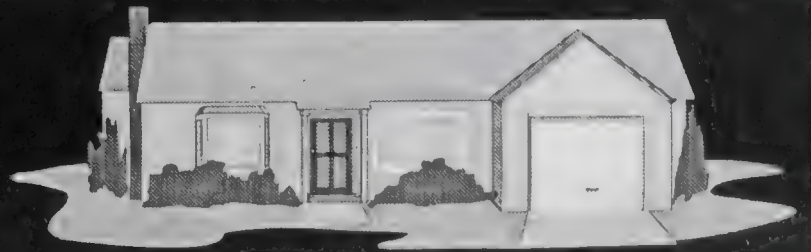

Estella Burch read to the folks Sunday afternoon and in the evening Rev. Burgess delivered the sermon to the residents. Lorna Roland played the organ.

Birthdays this week included Jean Taylor, Corinne Bonneville — happy birthday ladies.

Nancy Prentice is a new volunteer. She does one on one crafts with folks who can't function in a group setting. She also has been knitting baby items for sale in the showcase in the front hallway at Hyland Crest, welcome Nancy.

It was a busy week thanks to all the talent folks shared with our residents and all the volunteers who gave of their time.

Trustees want figures to back decisions

by Andrew Milne

Deliberations continue on the planned addition to the Haliburton high school. The May 30 meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education saw trustees agreeing on the rough features of the project — including the location of the planned science pod and triple gymnasium.

But a number of the trustees seemed quite uncomfortable with the process. The administration, they said, had been expected to provide information on relative costs of the different options, and this did not seem to be available, at least in clear terms.

Craig Pettit, representing Glamorgan, said, "We're spending an awful lot of money here on assumptions, and I'm finding it very difficult to make a decision," a concern that was echoed by various others during the meeting, including Dysart's Len Salvatori, Anson, Hindon and Minden's Wendy Ladurantaye and Brian Kernohan.

Money seems very much on trustees' minds as the process continues. Some trustees, prior to voting for the original resolution allocating the money for the project, made a point of asking whether a supportive vote necessarily meant the board had to spend the full amount, and were reassured that they could make all efforts later in the process to trim the project and look for savings. But in a long, drawn-out process in which that overall decision is really being made a little at a time, some members of the board at least seem to feel they are being trapped by the tyranny of small decisions.

Kernohan had refused to vote on the issue of the location of the labs, in a straw vote used to formulate an overall resolution for later in the meeting. He had asked earlier what would be the difference in cost in placing it in two of the locations considered, and didn't feel he'd received a clear answer from the administration. Challenged for his stand, he said, "I'm just not comfortable voting without knowing the dollar value." And so the count remained — 10 votes to 3 on a board of 14.

The resolution passed by the board at the end of the discussion locates the science pod northwest of the current building, and the new gymnasium on the south end. The current boys' gym will be used as a cafeteria/kitchen complex, and the girls' gym will be left largely unmodified pending a potential later project to convert the area, which is equipped with a small stage, to a more adequate auditorium facility.

Amanda enjoys liberation celebration

(Amanda Woods is a high school student who is spending a year in Holland as part of the Rotary Student Exchange Program. She is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Minden. Amanda has agreed to share her experiences with our readers. The following letter was written May 16.)

Dear Minden:

Hi! It's me again. I'm sure enjoying life here but I do miss the rolling landscape and lakes of Haliburton County. Oh well. I'll see it soon enough and then I can miss the flatness of the land over here. The time has gone by really quickly and I can't believe that I will be home in just six weeks.

I have moved to my last host family and I am enjoying myself immensely. I am now living on a completely different side of town. In fact, I am living beside the 'voetbal' stadium (soccer stadium). My host father is the director of four homes for mentally disabled children and my host mother is a psychotherapist. It is really nice here and we all get along really well.

School is almost over, but I am still enjoying myself quite a lot. I have made some good friends here at school and it is going to be hard to say goodbye to everyone. But alas I knew that this time would come. I just wish it didn't have to come so early.

Two weeks ago, during the week of April 30 to May 6, I had my 'mei vakantie'. It was a very busy week with all of the activities for the 50th anniversary of Holland's liberation. To start off the week we celebrated the Queen Mother's birthday. Everyone who had a Dutch or Frisian flag hung them out and my host family and I ate orange coloured food. The reason for orange is because it is the royal colour here. We went into town where there were many activities going on. There was a 'vry markt', which is much like a large garage/yard sale combined with a flea market. There were also many street musicians for our listening enjoyment. It was also a pleasure for me to meet some of the Canadian veterans. I believe there were between 2000 and 4000 Canadians in Leeuwarden.

On May 1 there was a parade of the veterans of Leeuwarden and it was amazing to see the support of all the people in this country. I could not get over how much the Dutch thanked the liberators. Then on May 2 I travelled to Hoorn to visit with some of the exchange students and to see a play depicting Anne Frank's diary. It was very well acted and it helped me to understand the situation that involved Jewish people and the war.

Another big activity was on May 5. Actually, it was a full day of activities, but the main one for me was the parade of Canadians, Americans and the British. The parade started in Drachten and continued through to Leeuwarden. In the parade carrying all of the veterans were the old war vehicles. To top everything off, at the end of the day there was a display of fireworks. It was a nice end to a terrific week.

Beginning next week I am doing a bit of travelling before the Eurotour begins. I will be going to the Keuken Hof, which is a tourist garden and I've been told it is very beautiful. I will also be going to the Zaanse Schans museum, a residential community of wooden houses and windmills, the Zuider Zee museum which is an open air museum depicting a Dutch village. I have also arranged to travel to Belgium for a few days and to Apeldoorn for two more museums.

After my travel around Holland I am going on the Eurotour for three weeks. I am really looking forward to all of it.

Well, until July,

Tot ziens.
Amanda

A Big Thank You

The guidance teachers of Archie Stouffer Elementary School and J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School thank the following individuals and organizations for their active participation in our recent Job Shadow program. Your involvement with our young people makes a difference.

Russell Snodden, right, of Archie Stouffer Elementary School was one of many students taking part in the job shadowing programs through the elementary schools in Minden and Haliburton. He spent a day at Dave' on 35 with employee Dave Irwin, and is seen in the photo helping with the french fry making process. Many businesses throughout the area helped with the shadowing program. Beyond our carrying capacity

In nature, over long periods of time, populations of plants, animals and micro-organisms in an ecosystem achieve a dynamic balance. There are always fluctuations in specific populations, but an entire system can be resilient and enduring.

Human beings have survived by their wits. But even with simple technologies, prehistoric people over-exploited resources and extinguished species. Over 40,000 years ago the first people in Australia radically altered the flora and fauna of the continent by their practise of setting fires. Paleolithic people who burst into the Americas are thought to have extinguished a number of large species as they migrated south. But in diverse ecosystems around the world, people developed sophisticated knowledge bases that enables them to exploit their surroundings without exceeding the local "carrying capacity."

Only recently, the explosive growth in human numbers, technological powers and consumption has given our species the power to alter the biophysical make-up of the Earth. But now that the economy has become the major preoccupation, ecological concerns have vanished from the government's agenda.

It is a suicidal omission, because no matter how sophisticated we may think we are, we remain dependent on Nature's bounty. In our rush to keep the economy growing, we are depleting natural capital that rightly belongs to our children. Nothing illustrates the modern dilemma better than the Fraser River watershed in British Columbia.

The Fraser is one of the truly great rivers of the world, draining more than one quarter of B.C.'s total land mass. The Lower Fraser supports over 300 species of birds, 45 mammals, 11 amphibians and five reptiles. (Already 132 plants and ten bird species are rare or extremely rare). Twenty-one million hectares of forest surround the basin and provide a livelihood for over 44,000 people. But a very conservative estimate is that Annual Allowable Cut exceeds the sustainable level by at least 14 percent!

The Fraser is famous for fish. The river supports six salmon species and 57 other fish species including the giant sturgeon. Eleven fish species are considered rare, imperilled or critically imperilled. Of B.C.'s total salmon catch, the Fraser contributes 66 percent of the Sockeye, 60 percent pink, 16 percent chinook, 11 percent chum and eight percent coho, supplying work for 15,000 people.

For millennia, the great waterway was a corridor for movement of wildlife and aboriginal people, habitat for fish, birds and mammals and the watershed serving vast forests. So it has been a magnet for human beings. Today, 2.4 million people, over two-thirds of B.C.'s population, use the water of the Fraser daily.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

Greater Vancouver is Canada's fastest growing urban centre. The human population is expected to reach three million by 2021, a 70 percent increase in 30 years, while the number of automobiles has grown by 30 percent between 1986 and 1992 to nearly a million cars. Human activity has transformed the river. Since 1900, 82 percent of the salt marshes of the Fraser estuary and 95 percent of the wetlands of the north arm, have disappeared. Only two of 50 original free-flowing streams in Vancouver still exist. Since 1987, over 36,000 hectares of farmland have been converted to urban use. Today there are few clues to tell us Vancouver rests on the delta of a once mighty river. The great flood plain east of Vancouver that was drained to create rich farmland, is being converted to immense housing developments, garish shopping malls and industrial parks.

On May 1, the Outdoor Recreation Council of B.C. representing over 50 recreation and conservation organizations, listed the Fraser as the Province's most endangered river.

On May 29, the Fraser Basin Management Board released its study which sounded a major alarm and cited a litany of the causes of the river's demise: Logging operations that stir up sediment, pulp mills that release toxic effluent, dams and diversions of tributaries and landfills that leak into watersheds. It listed gravel pits, industries, farms and golf courses that leak manure, insecticides, herbicides and fertilizers, steel plants, paint factories, rafts of logs treated with chemical preservatives, emissions of cars, trucks and buses and one million cubic meters of untreated sewage (93 percent from the Lower Fraser) that are pumped daily into the estuary.

The report states that salvaging the river will require a major shift in attitude: "As our population grows and we continue to consume at unsustainable rates, we use up our natural capital and our range of choices diminishes. We will never 'catch up' by repairing our previous mistakes and reacting to today's demands. We need to look further into the system to make fundamental changes in how we choose to live in the basin."

The Fraser River is a symbol for ecosystems everywhere. Its fate will tell us whether we can change our attitude and behaviour to live in harmony with a natural world that supports us.

Acid rain report

The following report on acid precipitation was recorded at the Ministry of Environment and Energy site at Dorset.

This report covers the period May 4 to May 29:

May 9: 5.6 mm of rain with a pH of 4.7
May 10: 15.6 mm of rain with a pH of 4.0
May 11: 5.7 mm of rain with a pH of 4.1
May 16: 3.0 mm of rain with a pH of 4.1
May 17: 9.4 mm of rain with a pH of 4.5
May 20: 5.1 mm of rain with a pH of 6.1
May 21: 2.5 mm of rain with a pH of 6.0
May 23: 14.6 mm of rain with a pH of 4.3
May 28: 18.2 mm of rain with a pH of 4.3
May 29: 4.0 mm of rain with a pH of 4.5

Environmental damage to lakes and streams is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH readings of less than 4.7. pH readings less than 4.0 are considered serious.

It seemed that May was cooler than normal, but the temperature was just about the same as last May year. In fact, this May was 1.1 degree C (2 degrees F) warmer. Rainfall was much lighter this May. Cold nights retarded growth and gardening.

Halo, or ring around the sun or moon: a whitish or coloured ring or arc is seen through an ice crystal cloud or a sky filled with ice crystals. Can be seen any season of the year.

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Final euchre games were held at Lochlin Centre on Tuesday, May 30 and everyone seemed to enjoy their evening. Snacks were served and the games will resume in the Fall.

All good wishes to Norma Burk and Reg Burk at St. Mike's, Toronto and to Hilda Harrison, Bette Herlihey, May Sinclair and Wanda Davis - may you all be on the road to recovery soon.

June birthdays at Hyland Crest include Winnifred Barnum on June 6, Lola Prentice on June 11, Harry Forbes June 22 and Grace Coburn on June 23. People might like to call or visit them on their special day.

Kinmount Seniors Wednesday night euchre results for May 3 included Dick Holbrook with most lone hands, Ted Wilkins, Dave Danilko, Ruth Kellett, Isa Hilyer. May 10 - most lone hands went to Isa Hilyer while others were Bill St. Thomas, Ted Wilkins, Ruth Kellett. The games are held every Wednesday night at 8 p.m. in the Station in Kinmount. Don't forget the Flea Market and Fun Fair on June 17. Call Mildred 488-2728.

We heard that Dorothy McElwain had a great time when she went with Mike, Josh and Dan McElwain to see the Blue Jays play at the SkyDome on May 31.

Shuffleboard games began last Wednesday, May 31 (Monday, it rained) and the games will continue through September. Senior Games are June 5 and 6 for this club and the finalists will go against the group from Muskoka.

Sincere sympathy to the families and friends of the late Petra Pequegnat, Vera Archer, W.E. Madill and J.H. Hennessey and to Shirley Elcome on the death of her nephew.

Club 35 euchre game results for May 29 included Olive Jones with the 50-50 draw, Stan Cline, most lone hands, Verna Sawyer and Frank Campagnolo with the highs and Betty Harper, Stan Dutka and Vicki Campagnolo. Next Wheels to Meals dinner is June 6 at 12 noon.

Recent guests visiting with Barbara Berry were her daughter Linda and her granddaughter from Calgary.

Congratulations to Wilma Gemmell of Minden who held ticket 0755 and won the Legion L.A. draw for a lounge chair on May 30.

The Haliburton County Fair books can now be picked up at the following locations: The Chamber of Commerce, Stedmans, Bwana John's and Custom Knits in Haliburton and the Chamber of Commerce, McMahon Feeds 'n' Needs, Country Magic, Stedmans and Henderson Insurance in Minden.

The Minden & District Horticultural

Society will have a full evening on Tuesday June 6 at Hyland Crest Auditorium. A plant sale will be held at 6 p.m. before the 7:30 p.m. meeting. It looks like an enjoyable evening. The guest speaker will be Dr. Gordon Smith on Homeopathy and the opportunity is there to enjoy mouth-watering desserts made from rhubarb!

Jerry and Ruby Schmidt visited with their daughter and family in Burlington.

Weekly Monday afternoon winners at St. Paul's on May 29 were Jack Chilton, Verna McDonald, Joan Mackenzie and Pearl Cowen who had most lone hands. Lucky Verna also won the draw. The games begin each Monday at 1:30 p.m. and everyone is welcome to attend.

Stanhope Bridge games with 7 tables playing on Monday May 29 included players from as far away as Miner's Bay and Lake Kennisis. Gertrude and Hans Saamen came first and third and Alex Stevenson was second. Betty Schlotter and Bill Cobbens bid and made a Grand Slam. Sounds like a good afternoon. The games begin at 1 p.m. in Stanhope Library.

On Tuesday, May 30 at the afternoon Bid Euchre games at Branch 636 Minden Legion, the moonshots were Verna McDonald, Bev Johnston, Iris Taylor and Norm Lee. Other winners were Marie Dennie, Iris Taylor and Bill Menard.

Games begin at 1:30 p.m. each week.

Stanhope Seniors also held bid euchre games at the library on May 24 and the winners with moonshots were Bill Matthews, Don Sinclair, Jim Skinner and Margaret Fletcher. Others were Betty Harper, Jean Scadden, Jeanne P., Don Sinclair, Pat Scadden, Bill Matthews, Bev Johnston and with the hidden score, Jim Skinner. Wednesday winners with moonshots were Marjorie Cowen, Pat Scadden with others Ruth Durkin, Mary Pearson and Rheta Brown, Lottie Ruttan, Lou Penick, Alvin Cowen, Ida Young and the hidden score went to Jean Scadden.

Noble Motel weekly euchre game winners for May 31 included Elmore Doner and Pat Rousselle and most lone hands to Ken Clarke. They welcome players every Wednesday.

Spring weather arrived the last week of May with blackflies numerous at times. Hopefully the nice weather will continue. We read somewhere that cider vinegar is a good deterrent for the flies, perhaps we'll try it soon.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Councilors are holding the 4th Annual Seniors' Tea at the Community Centre (upstairs) at the end of Prentice Street on Tuesday, June 13 after 2 p.m. during the celebration of Senior Citizens' Month. They welcome all seniors to attend.

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to say thank you to everyone for the many gifts we received for both Tyler and Jessica. Also to Nana Stamp, Nana Beaver and Aunt Jill for the surprise baby shower on April 30/95.

Tyler, Jessie, Paul and Boomer Stamp.

Thanks to one and all for your get-well cards, telephone calls, enquiries and best wishes during my recent operation and recuperation. There are too many to name individually but your thoughtfulness is very much appreciated and plays a large part in my speedy recovery. Again, thanks for your caring and concern. See you all soon!

Harold Parkes.

I should like to thank Guy Scott and staff at Kinmount I.G.A. for all their help to me over the past few years.

Bill Shaw, Gooderham. 6AB
